Home Univ.: Hanyang University
Dept.: Department of International Studies

Description: In this course, students will take the top management perspective of managing a corporation. Proper strategic management allows a firm to gain a sustainable competitive advantage over its rivals and add value to the firm. The course begins with learning how to analyze the business environment, then to formulating functional, business, and corporate strategies, and finally to implementing those strategies.

Objective: Students will learn to appreciate what it takes to become a leader of an organization, from setting up or changing an organization's long-term vision and goals, to leveraging organizational resources to take advantages of the opportunities available to the organization, to generating overall plans and further breaking those plans down into implementable steps, all in order to create a sustainable competitive advantage in the industry.

Preparations: Theory of Strategic Management w/ cases, Jones & Hill. Southwestern. ISBN: 9781133584650
